Publication of the ‘Research Handbook on Critical Legal Theory’

We are pleased to announce the publication of the Research Handbook on Critical Legal Theory.

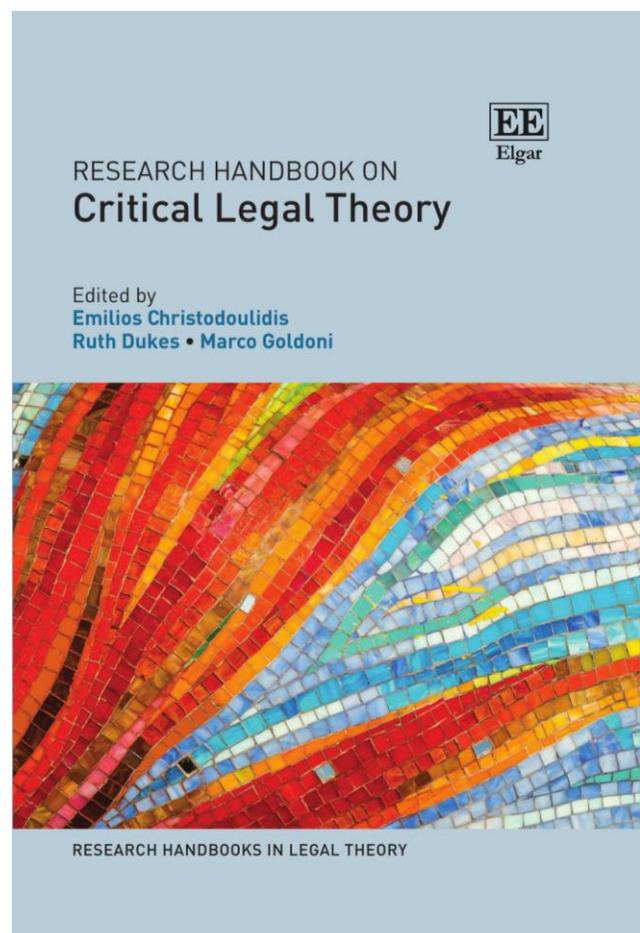

Editors: Emiliios Christodoulidis, Ruth Dukes,
Marco Goldoni
Edward Elgar Publishing

‘This is a brilliant collection! The Handbook’s editors have succeeded in making critical legal theory – in all its multifarious, subversive complexity – both accessible and compelling. Anyone hoping to come to terms with the sheer range of critical discourse that the law has inspired, or wishing to plunge headlong into the depths of a particular critical tradition, will find just what they need in this fascinating volume.’

– David Garland, New York University, US

2019 Adam Smith Lecture in Jurisprudence-

On Tuesday 28 May 2019 we hosted our annual Adam Smith lecture in Jurisprudence given by Christine Desan, entitled ‘The Monetary structure of Economic Activity’. A recording of the lecture and interview with Prof Desan will be shared in the coming weeks.

On Wednesday 29 May, we hosted a one-day seminar, with the participation of Prof Desan, on ‘The Constitutional Approach to Money’.

Workshop on 'The Material Constitution'

On the 30 and 31 May 2019, Marco Goldoni convened a workshop on the 'Material Constitution'. Day one traced the historical origins of the Material Constitution and day two examined its contemporary uses across legal fields.
